Evolution of Digital Literacy (My Version)

Poll

How do you create a culture of trust in your learning spaces?

Poll

How do we support healthy skepticism?

How do we get traction?

Strategies so far

FRAMEWORKS (EG. SECTIONS)

Make tool selection frameworks explicit and provide opportunities for practice.

MULTIPLE ENTRY POINTS

Design professional development opportunities to address multiple competency levels.

SELF REFLECTION

Familiarized ourselves with the elements and decided where we can build our own skills.

LURE WITH AI

Mini conferences, blogs and sessions.

ONLINE LEARNING I INSTITUTE (OLI)

We learned that being more practical rather than theoretical is important (facilitation skills and course design rubric).

ADAPT TOOLKIT

Redeveloping the toolkit once again to invite a wider campus audience.

Welcome!

Posted on JULY 24, 2024 by ANWEN BURK

What will you find here?

This kit contains resources and strategies for developing your own digital literacy skills as well as those of faculty and students.

Each page addresses an element of the The B.C. Post-Secondary Digital Literacy Framework and contains information about that element as well as resources that can help you implement that element into your own work, teaching and learning and faculty development.

Breakout

As a group, what is one key learning activity or strategy you can all agree to take away from our session today?

Report on what this learning activity or strategy can look like in practice.

Conclusion

We invite you to reuse and adapt the DIY toolkits and stay in touch.
